

I made you this drawing at preschool to remember my very last day. This year I made new friends, learned new things, and had lots of time to play.